AMERICAN AND FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs.
No. 76 State Street, opposite Kilby Street, Boston.
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States, also, in Great Britain, France, and other Foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents executed on reasonable terms, with despatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
My Attorney in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
My personal absence of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."
"Mr R. H. Eddy has made for me over THIRTY application for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the best attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

Mystery Solved.
THE MYSTERIOUS CHANNEL OF DISEASE
DISCOVERED
—BY—
DR. FITZGERALD,
Who is Now Introducing this Most Invaluable Medicine called Life Invigorator.

THIS INVIGORATOR is compounded from the purest and best vegetable nervines, and while its mission is to thoroughly eradicate all obnoxious substances of disease in the vital channels, it at the same time gives cheerfulness to the mind, restores memory, gives elasticity to the step and in reality makes the sufferer Happy, Courageous! Sound and Well. This claim is do more, London of the so-called patent medicines and is certain cure for all diseases, for I do not hold to that any one medicine can be compounded as to do this; but I do claim to have discovered a secret of renewing health, cheerfulness and strength never before made known. This "Life Invigorator" reaches the channel of the following diseases viz: Dyspepsia, Epileptic Fits, Scrofula, Catarrh, Cancers, Tumors of all kinds, Consumption, Scrofula, Weakness, Female weakness, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, or Jaundice, Exhausted vitality, Rheumatism and Neuralgia, Debility, Dropsy, Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Blood, Heart, Stomach, Kidneys and Spine.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 18, 1874

FUNERAL OF THE LATE MR. LYNDE. The remains of the late John H Lynde, Esq, reached this city last evening accompanied by a relative of the deceased, and were received at the railroad station by a number of personal friends.

The funeral will take place this afternoon, when religious services will be performed at 2 o'clock at the residence of the family on French street. The Masonic fraternity will accompany the remains to Mount Hope, where the deceased will be buried with Masonic honors by the Grand Lodge of Maine

All are cordially invited to attend.

BROTHER, FAREWELL

It is almost impossible to realize that he who left us only four short weeks ago, enfeebled, it is true, but with a warm grasp of the hand and a hopeful smile, will greet us no more on earth, and that his mortal remains are now awaiting the last sacred and tender offices. It still seems, at times, that we must hear again his familiar voice, and that he must soon return to the scenes with which he has been so intimately associated. But these emblems of mourning, the words of the above announcement, the sad conviction of what has so recently transpired, overcome even the force of habit, and press home upon the heart the feeling that our associate, co-laborer and friend has passed away.

The tired hands, which were never idle, are folded in rest at last, the generous heart is stilled; he has laid down the burden of earthly life and answered the summons to a higher service. How we shall miss him can hardly be told in words, and how he will be missed in the family where he was so devoted and so beloved can be known only to Him who "tempers the wind to the shorn lamb." May He, whose hand has fallen so heavily upon them with affliction, tenderly wipe away the tears of sorrow and shed the light of consolation in the home so suddenly darkened by bereavement.

Friends and neighbors will gather to-day to pay the last tribute of respect to one who has rendered good service to his fellow-men, and with them we shall stand at the grave to bid a last adieu to him who has been so closely by our side in all the labors of the last four years. May the turf which shall cover his remains blossom with flowers as fragrant as his memory. Friend and brother, Farewell.

TRIBUTES FROM THE PRESS

The following additional notices of the death of Mr Lynde are taken from papers which have recently came to hand

[From the Aroostook Pioneer

DEATH OF A PUBLISHER. The Bangor Whig and Courier of last Friday brought to us the melancholy news of the death of its publisher, Mr John H. Lynde. This sad event occurred in Savannah, Ga., at half-past seven o'clock Thursday morning. For several months past the deceased has been in feeble health, the result of too close and long continued application to business, but by the advice of his physician he hoped to recuperate by relaxation and change of climate. Whether such would have been the result is uncertain. He has left the scenes and cares of earth and risen from the honorable and prominent position which he earned by his skill, industry and strict integrity, to the higher life. He was sole proprietor of the Whig and Courier, with which paper he had been connected about twenty years. Being intimately acquainted with Mr. Lynde, having served our apprenticeship together in the Maine Farmer office, working at the case side by side nearly eight years, the news of his sudden death gives more than ordinary pain. We have lost a dear friend, the craft an honored member, and the community a valuable citizen. He was forty-six years of age.

The following letter in the Washington Daily Chronicle we attribute to the friendly hand of Lemuel Bursley, Esq. formerly of Sangerville, at one time employed in THE WHIG office, and more recently editor of the Grand Army Journal.

An Associated Press despatch, published in the Star of this evening, mentions the death at Savannah (Ga.) of a Bangor (Me.) publisher. The despatch errs in several particulars. John H Lynde, publisher of the Bangor Daily Whig and Courier, left home a few weeks since for Florida for the benefit of his health. There is no doubt that the despatch refers to him. No man has done more for the elevation of the daily press of New England. For nearly twenty years Mr Lynde has had control of the Whig and Courier, one of the most influential papers in New England outside of Boston. There can be no accusation that he used his position improperly, and his fellow craftsmen and the citizens of his State generally, will mourn his loss. L. B.

WASHINGTON, D C, March 12th, 1874.

[From the St John N. B., Telegraph]

THE LATE MR. LYNDE. We had the pleasure of being acquainted with the late proprietor of the Whig and Courier, and can well understand the profound regret caused by his death. He was a most energetic, enterprising and courteous gentleman. We tender our deepest sympathies to his afflicted family.

[From the St John Globe

We regret to notice the death of Mr. John H Lynde, proprietor of the Bangor Whig and Courier, which took place yesterday at Savannah, Ga., whither the deceased had gone to regain his health.

[From the St John Tribune]

THE BANGOR WHIG is in mourning for its late proprietor Mr. John H Lynde, who died in Savannah, last Thursday. Mr. Lynde learned the printing business in his youth, and became part proprietor and sole business manager of the Whig at the age of twenty-seven. Six years ago Mr Lynde became sole proprietor, Mr. Lynde was only forty-six years old when his nervous system broke down under the uninterrupted work of a daily paper, and then "his enfeebled system fell an easy prey to a sudden attack of congestion." His work killed him. When it was too late to save his life he put off the harness and went South. Mr. Lynde leaves a wife and three sons.

[From the Belfast Age.

We regret to learn that the death of John H. Lynde, Esq, the able and popular publisher of the Bangor Whig and Courier, took place at Savannah, Ga., Thursday morning. His health had been declining and he started to visit Florida, but grew rapidly ill on the journey, and was compelled to stop at Savannah, where he survived but few days.

[From the Rockland Gazette.]

We read yesterday with deep regret the intelligence of the death of John H. Lynde, Esq, publisher of the Bangor Whig and Courier, which took place at Savannah, Ga., on Thursday. His health had been failing for some time. Last summer he made a western trip in the hope of being benefitted, but since December he had failed rapidly, and on the 16th of February left home for Florida, accompanied by his wife. On reaching Savannah, on the 23d, he was prostrated by a severe attack of congestion of the lungs, from which he had not strength enough to rally. His intimate friend, Gen. Shepherd of Skowhegan, was with him in his illness. Mr. Lynde was 46 years of age, and will be mourned by a very wide circle of friends. He was a prominent member of the Masonic fraternity.

[From the Oxford Democrat.]

John H. Lynde, Esq., proprietor of the Bangor Whig and Courier, died at Savannah, whither he had gone for his health, on Thursday last. We have known him intimately for the past twenty years, and can speak from experience of his many good traits of character. He was distinguished for independence and honesty, and was one of the best business managers of a newspaper in the State. His friendships were strong and his opinions decided and outspoken. He was a prominent Mason, having been Grand Master of the Grand Lodge. He leaves a large circle of friends who mourn his loss, no class more sincerely than the journalists of Maine.

The Portland Argus says: "We learn on good authority that the Eastern R. R. Co. has succeeded in negotiating a $2,000,000 six per cent. loan in the London market, at par. This will enable the road to fund all its floating debt."

SENATOR SUMNER'S SUCCESSOR. The Boston Advertiser in an earnest editorial deprecates a competition at this time between Messrs. Hoar and Dawes and strongly urges Charles Francis Adams for Sumner's successor.

The Washington Star says editorially, in regard to the contest for the Massachusetts Senatorship: "Those who are interested only in having Mr. Sumner's vacant seat worthily filled without regard to personal preferences would be glad to see Charles Francis Adams selected, but the weight of opinion among those accustomed to forecasting political events is to the effect that Mr. Dawes will be chosen, to be followed by the election of General Butler as Governor of the State next fall."

Captain Brady has returned the $4000 voted him by the American Steamship Company of Philadelphia, and filed in the United States District Court his libel against the company and owners, consignees and agents of the cargo of the steamship Pennsylvania, for salvage as compensation for services in bringing her safely into port.

The last vote cast by Charles Sumner in the Senate was in favor of the bill providing for the appointing of a commission to investigate the liquor traffic.

INAUGURATION DAY AT AUGUSTA. The exercises attending the inauguration of the new City Government of Augusta took place Monday morning. Mayor North, in his address, recommends a just accountability and strict economy in expenditures, also, a careful and thorough revision of the city ordinances. The city has 150 miles of streets and the cost of repairs and improvements made on them the past year has been $20,323.77. The public schools continue to maintain their high reputation for usefulness. The debt of the city amounts to $510,000, which does not exceed seven per cent. of the Assessors' valuation. In relation to the enforcement of the liquor law, the Mayor says that the difficulty of enforcing the law should not deter those officers, whose special duty it is, from being vigilant in its execution. Much of the evils of intemperance, he thinks, might be mitigated if special effort should be made against those who sell to persons drinking to excess. Perhaps the police, already effective, may be more so by concentrated effort in the special line he indicates.

A HITCH IN THE DISTRICT INVESTIGATION. There was a long contest on Monday in the District of Columbia investigation committee over the question whether the presiding officer of the Senate had the right to designate Senator Stewart as chairman. This is generally left to the selection of a joint committee. There was an extended debate, but no formal decision. Mr Stewart's appointment is universally regarded as an attempt to break the force of the investigation. The memorialists propose to put him on the stand, and this alone is held by many to be quite sufficient to render his selection improper. The committee met Monday night, and, after deciding that the joint committee had the right to elect its own chairman, proceeded to vote and selected Senator Allison for the position. Mr. Stewart was not present, and informed his friends that he would not serve unless retained as chairman.

FATAL TERMINATION OF A QUARREL. Some time late in the fall, Henry C. Hammond of Paris was passing by the house of Lysander Butterfield in that town, and was having some controversy with a man named Stearns. Butterfield came out and took Stearns' part, and told Hammond to go home, because he was drunk. Hammond replied, telling Butterfield he lied. They then quarreled about a previous matter, and Hammond went home, not to stay, however, as he returned, and was saluted by his enemy, Butterfield, who came out of his barn with a hoe. While Hammond was adjusting the harness of his colt, in the street, he was struck by Butterfield over the head with a hoe, felling him to the earth, where he was unconscious for some time. He was thought to be dead for some time, but finally came to. The act was done in the public highway and Butterfield was arrested and put under bail for his appearance at court. Since that blow upon the head, Hammond has been in miserable health, and on Sunday morning last, at half past two o'clock he died. A post mortem examination was held Monday, the result of which is not received. It is reported that Butterfield has absconded.

MAINE NEWS.

FROM PORTLAND

CELEBRATING ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

PORTLAND, March 17.

St. Patrick's Day is being celebrated by a procession of the Montgomery Guards, the Sheridan Cadets, the Irish American Relief Association and the Wolfe Tone Association.

STABBED WITH A FORK.

The police discovered to-day that a man recently arrived in this country, named Thomas Dolan was badly stabbed with a steel fork by a man named Donovan on Sunday. Dolan is in a critical condition and Donovan has [illegible].

NOT ON THE BILLS.

This evening John Murray and John Con[illegible], two members of the Metropolitan Theatre Company while playing "Ten Nights in a Bar-Room" drank something from a bottle which proved to have been poisoned by the coloring used. They were taken to their hotel and physicians summoned, and at midnight they were considered out of danger.

FROM BATH

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.

BATH, March 17.

John Cunneen a workman employed in the [illegible] works of G. & J. T. Donnell, had his right arm caught in the machinery this morning and crushed at the elbow in a shocking manner. That he escaped with his life is a wonder.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

FORTY-THIRD CONGRESS

First Session.

WASHINGTON, March 17.

SENATE.

The chaplain in his opening prayer said: "Oh Lord we come to Thee this morning under the dark shadows of heavy grief. A vacant chair is before us. A noble presence has been borne hence to be committed earth to earth, dust to dust, ashes to ashes. He shall not come to us again, but we shall go to him."

Mr. Ferry of Mich., said that a great effort had been made recently to show that money is abundant in the city of New York. Such was a perversion of the true state of affairs as would be seen by a petition which he presented from about 400 leading business men of that city some of them using millions of money in their business, in which they protest against the efforts now being made to reduce the volume of currency, and pray that the same may be increased, that the business of the country may be safely carried on. Referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Logan presented petitions of the citizens of Illinois and New York city, in favor of an increase of currency. Other petitions in favor of specie payment and for an increase of currency were presented.

Mr. Frelinghuysen said that some weeks ago when the civil rights bill was under discussion upon his statement that if the bill should be referred to the Judiciary Committee it be reported back soon, the late Senator from Massachusetts, Sumner, agreed to the reference, and he (Frelinghuysen) now desired to state that the Committee had spent some days in perfecting the bill and it was now ready to be reported to the Senate, having received the approval of the majority of the Committee, but as the author of the bill had been taken away, he, (Frelinghuysen) would not report or call it up until the Chairman of the Committee (Edmunds) who [illegible] should be present, that he might take part in the debate. After some explanation by Mr. Stewart and some debate, the record was corrected, so that Mr. Stewart should be a member of the Joint District Committee in place of its Chairman.

[illegible] equalize the distribution of National bank currency was taken up.

Mr. [illegible] spoke in favor of increased currency.

At the close of Mr. Logan's remarks the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

Mr. [illegible], of N. Y., presented resolutions reciting the [illegible] that bills for advertising have been presented to the Treasury Department which advertising had been done in defiance of the law of the 15th of July, 1862, requiring written orders for all advertising and directing the Secretary of the Treasury to furnish copies of all such bills and of the correspondence thereto. Adopted.

Mr. Conger, offered a resolution instructing the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice to inquire into the judicial expenditures in the Southern District of Oregon. Adopted.

After a conflict for precedence between the cheap transportation bill, legislative appropriation bill and a contested election case the House went into Committee of the Whole on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill.

The Committee rose after having got through only two and a half pages of the bill.

Mr. McCrary, of Iowa, proposed that to-morrow be set apart for discussion on the transportation bill, giving as a reason that members will be absent to witness the launch of the Pacific Mail steamship City of Pekin, at Chester, Pa.

Mr. E. H. Roberts, of N. Y., objected.

Mr. Coburn, of Ind., Chairman of the Military Committee, reported a bill to provide for the gradual reduction of the Army, which was made a special order for the first Tuesday in April.

Mr. Todd moved to adjourn over till Thursday. Negatived.

Mr. Conger, member of the Committee on Commerce, renewed the proposition that to-morrow be devoted to debate on the cheap transportation bill. The members of his Committee regarded it as almost a part of their duty to attend the launch of the largest steamship ever built in the United States.

Mr. [illegible] withdrew his objection and a unanimous consent was given.

The House took a recess.

The evening session was devoted to debate on the transportation bill.

NEW YORK CITY.

THE ERIE RAILROAD INVESTIGATION.

NEW YORK, March 17. The Erie Investigating Committee report discovering that for four months the books have been taken out of the Auditor's office night after night, and that the floating debt is $2,400,000 instead of $8,000,000, as asserted by the retiring Auditor Dunan. They claim to have discovered other evidences of a conspiracy.

CHARGES AGAINST JAYNE BY THE TRIBUNE.

The Tribune gives the particulars of a sugar exporting firm here, having, after receiving numerous threatening communications from Jayne, paid him $10,000 to avoid a long and expensive litigation. The compromise was made by the junior partners in the absence of the senior member, who declares that he should have fought the matter had he been in the country, notwithstanding that Jayne threatened to sue for $2[illegible]000. It is stated that the firm was wholly innocent of the charges made.

A WITNESS BRIBED.

E. M. Carr, a Custom House Weigher, was spirited away when subpoenaed by the Congressional Committee last year to testify in relation to some of Jayne's doings, being sent to Boston on a forged despatch from Agent Bingham, and when the act was disavowed by letter on Carr's arrival in Boston, Jayne had him bribed to leave for New Orleans, promising him $10,000, but giving him only $400.

A DRUNKEN JUROR.

Eleven jurymen, trying one Joseph Harvey for highway robbery, yesterday, after having retired for some time sent a note to the Judge stating that they had agreed on a verdict except one man, Thomas Sullivan, who was too drunk to agree to anything. The jury was discharged and the drunken juror sent to jail.

A COLD-BLOODED MURDER.

While Nicholas Neil and five patrons were playing cards at his saloon in Breslau, L. I., Sunday evening, August Kellerman, entered intoxicated, and pointing an Enfield rifle at the party, exclaimed, "Look out now, fellows!" Andrew Muller, a peaceable brewer, received the charge in the head as he turned round, and was instantly killed. The authorities with difficulty prevented the populace from lynching Kellerman, who is now in jail.

SAINT PATRICK'S DAY.

THE CELEBRATION IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, March 17. St. Patrick's Anniversary is being observed to-day in the usual manner, but under the disadvantages of a cold easterly rain.

IN NASHUA, N. H.

NASHUA, N. H., March 17. The Ancient Order of Hibernians celebrated St. Patrick's Day with a dinner in City Hall. Lodges are present from Concord and Manchester, with music.

IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, March 17. Notwithstanding the heavy rain the St. Patrick's procession marched this afternoon but did not start till past 2 o'clock instead of noon. The ranks were thinner than they otherwise would have been if the weather had been fair. The procession took an hour and twenty minutes to pass City Hall, marching closely and somewhat fast on account of the rain. It numbered about 20,000. The procession passed along the route without an incident of any note or disturbance of any kind.

IN LOWELL, MASS.

LOWELL, Mass., March 17. St. Patrick's Day was celebrated in this city with considerable display despite the storm. Councilman Brady was Chief Marshal of the procession, in which fifteen Societies and eight bands and drum corps joined. This evening there was a lecture by Rev. A. Brady, of New York, a ball, a dramatic entertainment for the benefit of an Orphan Asylum and banquet by two Societies.

IN WORCESTER, MASS.

WORCESTER, Mass., March 17. St. Patrick's Day was celebrated here by a parade of the Father Matthew Society with their Band and the Father Matthew Society of Warren as guests. The other Irish Societies in the city did not parade, but will apply the money raised to charitable purposes.

IN HARTFORD, CT.

HARTFORD, Ct., March 17. Notwithstanding the rain and mud, the various Catholic Societies paraded to-day and were received by the Mayor.

IN PROVIDENCE.

PROVIDENCE, March 17. St. Patrick's Day was celebrated in this city by services in the Catholic churches and by a very large military and civic procession, which was reviewed by the Governor and Mayor.

IN SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 17. The Catholic Societies of Hampden county with the exception of Holyoke, where the Societies voted to apply the money raised to charitable purposes, celebrated St. Patrick's Day with a parade in this city. A festival in the City Hall concluded the celebration.

LOUISIANA.

THE GRANT PARISH PRISONERS.

NEW ORLEANS, March 17. The jury in the case of the Grant Parish prisoners brought in a verdict of "not guilty" as to Alfred C. Lewis. The jury, announcing no possibility of an agreement as to the others, were discharged and the prisoners were remanded as there are other indictments against them.

LEVEE BROKEN—PLANTATIONS OVERFLOWED.

A break occurred in the upper basse levee, three miles below Lake Providence, Friday, 200 yards long. At last accounts a dozen or more large plantations back of Goodrich's Landing were overflowed. It is reported that the break has stopped the running of trains on the Vicksburg & Shreveport Railroad.

WASHINGTON.

THE PROPOSED ARMY REDUCTION.

WASHINGTON, March 17. The House Committee on Military Affairs to-day, perfected the bill for the reduction of the army. They propose to cut off five regiments of infantry, one of artillery and one of cavalry. This is to be done gradually by the 1st of January, 1875. The number of enlisted men is to be 25,000. Such officers as may resign before [illegible] will receive a year's pay. The army, according to the bill, will consist of twenty [illegible] regiments of infantry, nine of cavalry and four of artillery.

NORTH CAROLINA.

BALD MOUNTAIN IN A STATE OF ERUPTION.

NEW YORK, March 17. A Raleigh special says there is much excitement over reports that Bald Mountain in the western part of North Carolina is in a state of volcanic eruption. It is stated that the farmhouses and cottages along the sides and at the base of the mountain have been prostrated by convulsions, and many of the inhabitants have fled. Thin vapor issues from the top of the mountain, a rumbling sound is audible over the entire surface, and snow melts as fast as it falls. A messenger has arrived at Raleigh in quest of some scientific men to make an investigation.

NEW YORK STATE.

"ALABAMA" SEMMES.

NEW YORK, March 17. In a letter regretting that he has to decline an invitation to address a Post of the Grand Army at Rome in this State, the late Rebel Admiral Semmes says: "As citizens of the same country who have had a good rough and tumble fight, I see no reason why we should not make peace and be friends when the fight is over, especially if the fight has had the effect to increase mutual respect."

PENNSYLVANIA.

EXTENSIVE FIRE.

PITTSBURG, March 17. A despatch from Mount City states that this morning a fire was discovered issuing from the Oil Exchange Hotel and that the flames spread rapidly, reaching the Bateman House on the opposite side of the street. About thirty-five buildings were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $100,000; partially insured.

MASSACHUSETTS.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

BRIDGEWATER, March 17. Mrs. Catherine, wife of Shepherd Leach, was found dead in the cellar of her house this forenoon with her neck broken. She was a heavy woman, about 55 years of age, and it is supposed that she mistook the cellar door for the bed room door.

BOSTON.

MISS SNOW'S WILL—LIST OF BEQUESTS.

BOSTON, March 17. Miss Sophia J. Snow, whose will was offered for probate some months ago, but delayed by reason of a commission being sent to Naples to take the deposition of witnesses, has just been admitted to Probate by Judge Ames. The following is a list of the benefactions she has made: Sailors' Snug Harbor in Quincy, $20,000; Warren Street Chapel, $5,000; Massachusetts General Hospital for the support of four beds, $5,000; Old Woman's Home, $10,000; Children's Home and Home for Aged Women in Roxbury, $10,000; Old Colored Women's Home, $10,000; Roxbury Charitable Society, for the benefit of destitute widows and orphans, $5,000; Unitarian Association of Boston for the support of preaching to destitute societies, $5,000; Unitarian Society in Brunswick, Me., $5,000; Children's Mission to Destitute Children, $5,000; Roxbury Athenæum for enlargement of library, $5,000. Total bequests, $85,000. In addition to the above she gives all her paintings after certain contingencies to the Boston Athenæum. The will is short and concise and closes with the words: "I forbid all person or persons to break this my last will and testament, and whoever attempts to break it or breaks it, may he, she or they find no peace for mind or body in this world or in the world to come."

CALIFORNIA.

CENTRAL PACIFIC AGAIN BLOCKADED.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17. The Central Pacific Railroad is again blockaded near Emigrant Gap. The snow at the summit is fully ten feet deep on a level. The telegraph poles and wires are buried out of sight, half the distance from Emigrant Gap to the track.

THE BLOCKADE RAISED.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17. The snow blockade is again raised and trains are moving each way. The storm in the mountains seems to have spent its fury yesterday.

NO PAPER TO-MORROW. This office will be open until ten o'clock this forenoon for the delivery of papers, etc., and after that hour will be closed for the remainder of the day, in order to allow all connected with the establishment to attend the funeral of late Mr. Lynde, which is announced elsewhere. There will therefore be no paper issued from this office to-morrow, Thursday.

—New moon at 12.00 this morning.

—Three intoxicated lads occupied the lock-up last night.

—Snow is reported to be 2½ feet deep in the upper Penobscot woods.

—Robert Blake was taken to the Insane Hospital at Augusta, yesterday.

—A runaway horse demolished a sleigh on Broad street yesterday morning.

—Two barrels of rum were seized at Greenville Monday morning by Sheriff Foss.

—A masquerade ball will be given at Eddington Bend on Friday evening next.

—A little son of Dr. C. E. Fuller of Lincoln, accidentally fractured his arm in this city on Monday.

—We are indebted to Ezra C. Brett, Esq., the popular and efficient Clerk of Courts, for many courtesies.

—City Marshal Bolton has been summoned to Boston to appear as a witness in the Judge and McGrath cases.

—A grand ball is to be given in Oldtown town hall this evening. Oakes' orchestra of this city furnishes the music.

—It is understood that Messrs. John Atwell & Son of Orono are to run four single saws and a gang at Veazie Upper mills.

—Mrs. A. M. Bailey, residing on First-st., had the misfortune to break both bones of her leg below the knee, by a fall, yesterday.

—The concert by the Mendelssohn Quintette Club in this city has again been postponed. Due notice will be given of the new date.

—The ladies of the Methodist sewing circle at Winterport will give a tea party in Curtis' Hall next Monday evening, the proceeds to be devoted to the pastor's salary fund.

—Leonti Martin of Oakfield Plantation, at work for Messrs Palmer & Johnson, lumbering, had his foot badly crushed last Friday. He was brought out to Sherman for surgical attendance.

—Mr. Wesley Osgood was seized with a sudden faintness while crossing Kenduskeag bridge, yesterday afternoon, and fell insensible. He was taken into a neighboring office and soon after recovered.

—A gentleman walking up Main-st. with a lady last evening, was set upon by an unknown man and knocked down, and a friend coming up to the rescue was knocked down also. The assailant escaped.

—Noah Foster, the obliging janitor of Music Hall, whose prompt attentions are no doubt held in kindly remembrance by all who have attended assemblies in that hall the past winter, is to have a benefit ball to-morrow evening.

—Very little drunkenness was to be seen on our streets last night, and it is evident that through the influence of the St. John's Total Abstinence Society, the old practice of "drowning the shamrock" has become a thing of the past.

—Lieutenant Saxby predicts an enormous rise of the tide over all the world, but chiefly north of the line, on the 20th inst. As his predictions concerning several great gales and tidal waves have proved correct in the past, his announcement carries much weight.

—Mr. A. T. Wing, of Oldtown, has invented a machine to make spools, and has it nearly ready to operate. A round rod of wood is inserted and comes out perfect thread spools leaving no finishing to be done by hand. Mr. Wing has also invented a "car starter" to be used in depot yards.

—A correspondent writes that the singing school in Hermon, which has been in successful operation the past winter under the instruction of Mr. Wm. Crocker of [illegible], closed on Wednesday evening last. A large audience was present, and the singing was much enjoyed by both singers and listeners.

THE TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT. The [illegible] in the new temperance movement have appointed to-day as a day of fasting and prayer for its success, and [illegible] of this [illegible], a grand temperance mass meeting will be held in City Hall, commencing at 10½ o'clock this forenoon. All interested in [illegible] and aiding in temperance reform are cordially invited to attend. [illegible] by the committee, in their published call, [illegible] are also requested to take part in the exercises. Judging by the interest manifested at the previous meetings, this will be the largest temperance meeting ever held in the city.

HIGH SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT. In addition to two series of elaborate tableaux illustrating Tennyson's "Dream of Fair Women" and Kingsley's "Three Fishers," there will be presented at the entertainments to be given in City Hall to-morrow and Friday evenings by the Senior Class of the High School the farce "My Turn Next," and a comical burlesque operetta entitled "Arabella, the Fair." In the farce the cast is as follows:—"Taraxacum Twitters," J. L. Wooderson, "Tom Trap," L. Frank Gowen; "Tim Bolus," Mr. Clergue; "Lydia," Miss Crosby; "Cicely," Miss Bishop; "Peggy," Miss Martin. In the operetta the parts are distributed as follows:—"The Fair Arabella," Miss Crowell; "Sweet Angelina," Miss Treat, "Guy Alphonzo," Mr. Wooderson; "Rolling Stoffio," Mr. Crowell, "Arabella's Pa," Mr. Bright, officers, Mr. Tefft and Mr. Harlow; monk, Mr. Clergue.

BOARD OF TRADE AND MANUFACTURES. There have been during the past year a great many letters sent to merchants, lumber dealers and others in this city, from parties in Liverpool and other English ports, enquiring concerning the size of our harbor, the depth of water, etc., and in view of this a special meeting of the Board of Trade and Manufactures was held at the Border office yesterday afternoon to consider the propriety of having a number of thousands of the map of the harbor, recently completed by the U. S. authorities, printed and distributed in the localities from whence the requests for information have come. The meeting was largely attended, and by request of the Board City Engineer Pullen came in with the chart of the harbor lately received from Gen. Thom, which he explained in detail. The matter was then discussed at some length, and on motion of Dr. Tefft, R. S. Prescott, Esq., President of the Board, Alderman Isaac M. Bragg, and Henry Lord, Esq., President of the Common Council, were appointed a committee to consult with the City Government and see what can be done by the city and Board, conjointly, concerning the obtaining and distributing of the maps, as above stated, for the benefit of commerce.

DR. CHAPIN'S LECTURE TO-NIGHT, in Norombega Hall, is the last of the series of excellent entertainments given in this city, the present season under the direction of Post 12, G. A. R., and the Entertainment Committee are to be congratulated on their success in securing the services of so distinguished an orator for the closing lecture of the course. The Committee have spared no expense nor pains to keep their promises to the public and, though laboring under many disadvantages, have fulfilled every pledge to ticket holders that they made in the early winter. In several instances lecturers have broken their engagements without scruple; but the Committee, determined to give our citizens the entertainments announced, have re-engaged them at later dates—in some cases at a largely increased expense—and have thus honorably fulfilled all their promises. Pecuniarily, the course has not thus far been a success,—a result to be deplored, as it was hoped to materially increase the charity fund of the Post,—but no one can find fault with the quality of the entertainments, and we trust that our citizens will fill the hall this evening to such an extent that the Post may at least lose nothing.

Dr. Chapin needs no introduction to our readers; he stands in the front rank of pulpit and platform orators. His new lecture, which he delivers here to night, is entitled "Building and Being," and is said to be the most popular he ever delivered.

MISS WILEY'S BENEFIT CONCERT, in City Hall last evening, was attended by a fair-sized audience who were well rewarded for braving the storm. The concert opened with a quintette by Bishop, "Blow, Gentle Gales," sung in a very artistic manner by Miss Wiley, Mrs. Wasgatt, and Messrs. Holden, Holbrook and Belcher. Mr. Belcher next appeared in Shield's song, "The Thorn," in which his heavy bass voice had full scope and won him much applause. The beneficiary, Miss Wiley, was allotted the third number on the programme, and sang Verdi's "Ernani Involami". Her powerful yet clear and rich voice never appeared to better advantage, and she was enthusiastically recalled, when she sang the Scotch ballad, "Bonnie Sweet Bessie, the Maid o' Dundee." Her only other solo was the song "Esmerelda," (sung by request,) which gained her much applause. The fourth number was the well-known trio "Drink to me only with thine eyes," sung with so fine effect by Messrs Williams, Holbrook and Moody, that they were obliged to return and repeat it in response to the demands of the audience. These gentlemen together with Mr. Crowell, sang later in the programme Orne's quartette, "Poculum Elevatum," in the excellent style which those who listened to them at the Handel concert will well remember, and they also repeated by request the quartette "Come unto Me," so much admired at that concert. The fifth number was a duett by Miss Wiley and Mr. Holden—Gubert's "On Mossy Banks"—which was well rendered, Mr. Holden's clear tenor blending admirably with the lady's notes. To Mrs. Crowell was allotted the sixth number, and we never heard her sing better than in the cavatina "Ah! Mon Fils" (from Le Prophete) and the song "Sleep, My Darling," which she gave in response to a most enthusiastic encore. Mrs. Crowell also appeared in the next piece, Mendelssohn's trio "Lift thine eyes," in which she was supported by Miss Wiley and Mrs. Wasgatt. The last named lady sang Rossini's "Una voce poca fa" in a manner that won unbounded applause, and she was recalled. The concert closed with a "Laughing Trio" by Martini, sung by Miss Wiley, Mrs. Wasgatt and Mr. Belcher, which made everybody in the hall take part in the laughing, and sent them home in the best of humor.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT—FEBRUARY TERM.

CHIEF JUSTICE APPLETON Presiding.
HON. H. M. PLAISTED, Attorney General.
JASPER HUTCHINGS, Esq., County Att'y.
EZRA C. BRETT, Esq., Clerk of Courts.

Tuesday, March 17th. The Reed trial still continues. In the forenoon John F. Robinson, Esq., junior counsel for the prisoner, opened the case for the defence, after which a large number of witnesses were examined. Several testified that Reed's boot which was brought into Court, identified as the one he wore when first placed in jail here, and measured by them in [illegible] city, from the measurements of the tracks discovered beside the hole on the island where Ray's body was found. The brother of the prisoner and his venerable father, who is 84 years of age, testified that Reed on the evening that Ray was missing [illegible]. Elder French was on the stand, testifying when Mr. McCrillis asked him if certain men summoned as witnesses in this trial testified at the first examination of Reed before a trial justice, concerning the track beside the body. The Attorney General objected to the question as not relevant. Mr. McCrillis insisted on the question as proper and relevant, as, if it were shown that the track was not noticed then, it would tend to impair the credibility of the witnesses who have here testified concerning it. The Court adjourned without deciding upon the admissibility of the question, which is held under advisement till Wednesday morning.

SAINT PATRICK'S DAY

ITS CELEBRATION IN THIS CITY YESTERDAY

The announcement of "Old Probabilities" was eagerly looked for yesterday morning by hundreds in this city interested in the coming celebration of Saint Patrick's Day, and though the predictions were rather dubious as well as the appearance of the skies in the early morning, indications that the forenoon would be pleasant were gratefully greeted by those intending to take part in the procession. At an early hour the members of the various organizations intending to come out, were on their way to the different rendezvous appointed, and as ten o'clock drew near the organizations complete marched, one after the other, to the place appointed for the formation of which was on Main st., a short distance below the Bangor House. Under the direction of the Chief Marshal and his efficient aides, the procession was quickly formed, in the following order:—

Aides — Wm. Conners, Chief Marshal — Aides
Bangor Cornet Band.
Hibernian Mutual Benevolent Association, Thos. McSorley, President
St. John's Total Abstinence Society, M. Crowley, Marshal
Delegation from Ellsworth Total Abstinence Society
Chariot drawn by six horses and occupied by thirty four young ladies
Guard of Honor
Health's Drum Corps
St. John's Temperance Cadets
St. Aloysius's Temperance Cadets

All the Societies appeared in their new and handsome regalia, and the comingling of green and white, silver and gold, produced a fine effect as the procession took up its line of march, to the stirring music of the Band. The ranks were full, and the number in line could not have been less than six hundred. Elegant banners were carried by each organization, and beside the Harp of Erin waved the Stars and Stripes, denoting at once the loyalty of the bearers to their adopted country as well as their love for the mother land. The excellence of the marching was the subject of much comment, it being done with a steadiness and precision that would be creditable to veterans.

The chariot was an elaborate and well designed affair, and was drawn by six fine horses. Three tiers of seats covered with green drapery were arranged around the vehicle, upon which sat thirty two of the fairest of the "Daughters of Erin," in the city, all elegantly costumed in green silk and black velvet and wearing badges with the names of the different counties of Ireland inscribed upon them in silver letters. Upon the highest dais in the centre of the chariot were the "Goddess of Liberty," appropriately clad in the national red, white and blue, and the "Maid of Erin," garbed in green and gold and supporting a gilded harp.

The effect was charming, as may well be supposed, and the chariot with its rich freight was frequently applauded during the march.

THE ROUTE OF THE PROCESSION

was, from its starting point on Main st., up Cedar st., through Second and High, down Hammond st. and across Kenduskeag bridge, down Exchange st., up Hancock, through Newbury, down York, up Boyd, down State, up Essex, down Somerset, up Broadway, down Cumberland, down Harlow, through Central and up Main st. to Davenport square, where the procession was dismissed.

The residences and stores of many Irish citizens on the streets through which the procession passed, were decorated with flags and bunting. Prominent among these was the store of James Tobin, Esq., on Kenduskeag bridge, from which besides other decorations were hung out two immense flags, one American and one Irish, which overhung the street.

The procession was reviewed by Mayor Blake and the members of the City Government from City Hall, and the usual salutes were exchanged in passing. About one o'clock in the afternoon the procession was dismissed, and the Hibernian Mutual Benevolent Association escorted the other organizations to their respective quarters. It was the universal remark that a finer procession was never seen on our streets on St. Patrick's Day, and the Marshals and various committees are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts in making the requisite arrangements and carrying them out.

Fortunately for the procession the threatened rain held off until after it was disbanded. The streets were quite wet and slushy, but their condition did not interfere with the march.

At half-past two o'clock in the afternoon a

PUBLIC DINNER

was given at the Bangor House, to which about 170 persons sat down. The dinner was served in mine host Shaw's best style, and was worthy of the occasion. It was discussed with relish, and as soon as the inner man was appeased the assemblage was called to order by D. F. Kelleher, Esq., President of the day, who in an admirable speech opened the second part of the entertainment, and then introduced Joseph W. Taney, Esq., as Toast Master. Mr. Taney read letters from several gentlemen regretting their inability to be present, and then proceeded to give the toasts in regular order. We regret our inability, from lack of space, to publish these and the responses in full, but must content ourselves with the following list:—

1—The Day We Celebrate—Responded to by Rev. John W. Murphy, Pastor of St. Mary's church.
2—Ireland—Dirge by the Band.
3—The United States—Responded to by Thos. McSorley, Esq.
4—The Patriots of 1798 and 1848—Responded to by Richard Kelleher, Esq.
5—The Catholic Hierarchy of Ireland—Responded to by Rev. Clement Mutsaers, Pastor of St. John's church.
6—The City of Bangor—Responded to by his Honor, Mayor Blake.
7—The President of the United States—Responded to by ex-Mayor Bass.
8—The Memory of Father Matthew—Responded to by Chas. J. Ferry, Esq., President of St. John's Total Abstinence Society.
9—Calhoun, Buchanan and Jackson—Responded to by Marcellus Emery, Esq.
10—The Press.
11—The Ladies—Responded to by Wm. Conners, Esq.

The Band was present and played an appropriate piece after each sentiment, thus adding to the enjoyment of the occasion, and it was nearly five o'clock before the company separated.

LECTURE.

In the evening Rev. Father Wallace of Portland addressed an immense audience in Norombega Hall. His subject was "Ireland; her Past and Present," and his lecture embraced a graphic sketch of the history of the Emerald Isle, and its condition at the present day. Father Wallace is a fine speaker; he treated his subject with a master-hand, and his address was applauded to the echo by his enthusiastic hearers.

—Thus ended what old residents assure us was the best conducted and finest celebration of the birthday of the Patron Saint of Ireland, that ever occurred in our city.

—Among the presents reported to have been made to the Prince Imperial on his birthday is a Garter from Queen Victoria. This is one of the highest honors in the gift of the sovereign of Great Britain, and will be construed into a quasi-recognition of the young man's claims, which some would think it was hardly wise to make at this time.

DECISIONS AT LAW.

The following decision in Law by the Full Bench has been received by the Clerk of Courts:—

Fifield vs. Maine Central Railroad Company; on exceptions by defendant; "exceptions sustained."

J. F. Godfrey. — J. S. Rowe.

Rescript.—Persons, who contracted to build a railroad, were the owners of certain rails and sleepers, consisting of a side track connected with the main track, used for the purpose of conveying materials upon the road during construction, and when the road was delivered to the Railroad Company, at the request of the Company and for their accommodation and use the contractors consented that the track should remain a while, to be returned to the contractors any time upon the line of the road whenever called for; and while in that situation the rails and sleepers were seized and sold upon executions as the personal property of the contractors. Held that they were not a part of the realty, but personal chattels, liable to be so seized and sold. The officer could give, and the purchaser could receive, a delivery, without taking any other possession of the rails and sleepers than such as could be had without disturbing their situation as a track.

The railroad corporation would not be liable to an action for conversion of the rails by a reasonable use of them while they had no notice that the ownership of them had changed, nor by a mere non-compliance with a written demand served upon its resident at a place other than where the rails were, the corporation making no objection or resistance against the plaintiff's taking possession of them.—(Peters, J.)

BRUTAL MURDER OF AN AMERICAN MISSIONARY IN MEXICO. A despatch from the City of Mexico, March 10th via Havana, states that a fearful outrage was perpetrated by a mob at Ahualulco, in the State of Jalisco, last Sunday. In the morning a priest delivered an incendiary sermon, in the course of which he advocated the extermination of Protestants. This so excited his hearers that an armed mob of 200 persons gathered in the evening and proceeded to the residence of the Rev John Stevens, a Congregational minister, sent out by the Women's Board of Foreign Missions of Boston. With cries of "Long live the priests," they broke into the house, and, seizing the clergyman, smashed his head to a jelly and chopped his body into pieces. They afterwards sacked the house and carried off everything of value. After much delay the riot was suppressed by the local authorities. The Government has sent a detachment of troops to the place; a rigid investigation has been set on foot, and orders have been issued for the arrest of all priests in Ahualulco and the neighboring town of Tesistan. A mob in Saguayo, acting under a similar religious frenzy, attacked the small garrison of the town, burned the public archives and pillaged the houses of the authorities.

In the District of Columbia Investigating Committee, Tuesday afternoon, all the members, including Senator Stewart, were present. Mr. Mattingly commenced an argument in behalf of the District authorities.

PRINCE NAPOLEON'S MAJORITY. A great crowd of people assembled at Chiselhurst, England, on Monday, to celebrate the 18th anniversary of the birth of Louis Napoleon. Over six thousand cards of admission were issued, and those to French persons only. In the morning mass and thanksgiving services were held, after which the Duke of Padaue addressed the Prince in the name of the people of France, congratulating him upon having attained his majority. The Prince in his reply returned thanks to his countrymen for their faithful remembrance of the late Emperor, and in conclusion said: "Despite the confidence inspired by the loyalty of MacMahon, an irresistible current of public opinion has pronounced in favor of a plebiscite. I am ready to accept its verdict." Great enthusiasm was manifested. Among the prominent Frenchmen present were Ollivier, Rauher and Duke de Grammont. The British journals generally consider the demonstration a success.

BUSINESS ITEMS.

Don't let anything keep you away from Stevens' great sale of Dry Goods at 40 Main st., this afternoon.

WILBOR'S COD LIVER OIL AND LIME.—The great popularity of this safe and efficacious preparation is alone attributable to its intrinsic worth. PENOBSCOT, ss. February 25th, A. D. 1874.

Taken on execution and will be sold at auction, on MONDAY, the twentieth day of April, A. D. 1874, at ten o'clock A. M., at my office in said County, all the right in equity which Samuel Hawes has or had on the twenty fourth day of June, A. D. 1873 being the time of the attachment on the original writ in this action, to redeem the following described real estate situated in the town of Orono in said County, to wit:

A certain lot of land and buildings thereon, situated in the town of Orono, in the County of Penobscot, and is the same now occupied by Joel Hawes and bounded as follows: "Beginning at an Elm tree and stone on the bank of Penobscot river, thence running by said line of said lot north forty and one half degrees west three hundred and thirty one rods to a stake, thence south forty five and one-half degrees west, so far as will contain fifty acres by running a line parallel with the first mentioned line to said Penobscot River to a stake and stones, thence up the said river to the first mentioned bounds; being the same premises conveyed to said Hawes by J. E. Rollins and A. K. Rollins, deed recorded in Penobscot Registry of Deeds, vol. 3[illegible] page 9[illegible]. The above described premises being subject to three mortgages, one given by Rollins to Gipson, to secure five notes of hand for two hundred dollars each, dated June 1st, 1864, and recorded in Penobscot Registry of Deeds, vol 340, page 133, and one given by Joel Hawes to Esther Fogg to secure the sum of four hundred dollars, dated May 12, 1866, and recorded in Penobscot Registry of Deeds, vol 363, page 303, and one given by Joel Hawes to John W. Swazey to secure the sum of one hundred and eighty-two dollars, dated November 5th, 1872.

Dewey droops the green sweet-brier,
Dowey hangs like rose,
And follow where the footstep,
Lightly printed, goes

Sun, that doth the top to meet me,
Wash where he to see
Down beneath that gray horizon
Half so fair as she?

Down this path she careless wandered
Where the lilies drooped,
Here her garden to breathed the dew of
As she gathering, stooped

Low she tucked and passed, uncertain—
Ah, I wasn't now!—
Or stones she felt brook singing
Saintly, far below!

Loading on to greet the roses
Run the footsteps free,
Red, and white as I think she gathered—
Dropping one for me!

Then, to where the honeysuckle
Climbs together in the bee—
No she stopped and left it climbing,
Turning elsewhere

Where the? Oh adown this pathway
Where her hill stroll
Makes the air with perfume heavy,
Purpling all the slope

Sun, that maketh shadows shorter
As I follow where
Were were you at early dawning
Which she climbed the hills?

Shall she climb to wait your coming,
She my own my sweet,
When her gracious presence only
Makes your day complete?

Hers shall be left for blossoms singing
In a sweeter's ear,
And the dewy steps go springing
Up the rocks to bare

Higher higher, ever reading
Below Hand Hope—
Sunny ha fell the sunshine
At my footsteps.

IN A MAJOR'S MISTAKE.

[Concluded

Oh, dozens all couched in the condescending brevity with which the dear chevalier of the day deigns to express his wishes—Now just contrast the menu we have been talking about. Worship commences by a shower of more or less readable verses, which you have the option of reading or committing to the flames. You casually drop your handkerchief into a random basket or down a precipice, at your adorer throws herself after it, and restores it at the risk of his life. After a while he throws himself on his knees—"Only believe what I beg you to save him from destruction! You relent, or leaving in the meetings fire, a glance is enough—and so did Diana's eye—"and woe to him who flinches."

Horrible!" said Patty.

Will this suit you better? Streplon strolls lazily into the room, remarks on the weather, and allows himself to declare that it is your side, and suggests that you should become Mrs. Streplon. En certant he meets some friends, at his toes, they exchange cynical epithets, light cigars, and—in pantomime—cut each other at the club"

"Well, that's better than fighting," said Patty.

"And positely safer. "Well, my dear, perhaps, after all, you are right. We mustn't lose our heads of the class from Sir Henry Wildair—there's a darling name for your!" They only show what was considered the thing. I daresay I am getting fearfully crabbed. You see when a girl has money she becomes the center of a circle of deception—let's change the subject. How well that habit suits you!"

"It is rather strange. You see I acquired the ride at home."

"Ah of course! Now to me that habit is second nature, as some one says. I feel in quite a more comfortable in one than in a low dress. I purposely lent you my regular habit-shirt, for I wanted to see how I should feel in this new-fangled affair. I was afraid it wouldn't suit—crashing through a bullfinch, one wants something stiffer for that. . . ."

"Why is that?" she cried, as an instinct sound came down the wind, and both horses pricked up their ears. The hounds, they in fact have come all the way from Martford."

Oh, do look at this horse, Di"—he's dancing up and down fearfully."

"Let him on the curb, dear, if he's too obtrusive."

"Ah, there they go! Look, Patty, that's a sight worth seeing, now close they run. Yes, it's Mr. Vane on Brown Bess. Well tried at, Mr. Vane! Ah, the Major goes it—oh, the conceit of that man—and there comes the rest—only two gays for all the poor creatures—there's my little brother Barry bringing up the rear on his pony—terrible hard fellow is Barry—Oh, Patty," said Diana, trembling with excitement, "I'd give anything to be with them"

"Then go, dear," said Patty, with an effort of self-sacrifice that was enormous "I'm sure I shall be safe enough. Wither will take care of me."

"Well, he's just down a thereof there—Keep along it, and you must cross the hop—they are taking it really must—come, Terry, and away went—Diana, habit tossing and eyes glistening, and vanish gloriously.

Patty turned her horse's head tar ed into and the gate of the field they had just entered, and got safely into the road. So the distance down it she could see Withers, the groom, who was limping a little down with his horse, which was plunging and unvetting in a diagonal position as is the manner of an eager horse, performing an equine balance step without advancing part calmly. On Crossing sight of his companion in all decency, he proceeded to indulge his anxious with a sores desirable amount of ex gesteration.—Patty, bridling him by passing into a canter, attempted to take up the curb-rein, but only succeeded in getting both in an inextricable confusion. Then she clung in terror to them with both hands, on which the irritable Cruiser fought impatient with a compressed canter, which developed itself into a smart gallop, dashed past the astonished Withers, and stampeded

Our friend, the Major, had arrived at the meet that morning, and was considerably chagrined not to find the object of his interations present. The stillest bit of country for miles round, too," he said to himself. "What can she be thinking of?" His determinations of the morning was still in his mind, and he lodged for an opportunity of putting it in practice. Oh, for the sight of the well-known blue habit and iron-gray steed! The Major was destined to have his aspirations gratified in an unexpected manner.

He had been riding a hire of his own for a short distance, and was separated from the rest of the field by the breadth of a pasture, when he heard the pleasing repeated rattle of a horse-jig at full gallop in the road on the other side of the high hedge, parallel to which he was riding, and in another moment he saw through the twigs the horse he had looked in rapturous the meet rear past him at mad speed, the blue habit streaming back as the wearer swayed on the saddle, holding the reins in both hands with the convulsive grasp of fear.

"Run away, by Jove!" said the Major, turning Zerlina's head without the least hesitation at the quickest. Two or three intense short strides—a rise and a crash of twigs—a rattle of horse hoofs, as they patter on the hard road, as Zerlina just manages to save her knees and nose from damage by a clever recovery, and then the Major as cool as if he had been hopping over a gutter instead of one of the highest drops in its experience, set her going in pursuit.

The fact was, the Major was in that state of excitation that every soldier feels on coming into action. Quick as lightning he saw the coming situation, and braced himself to take advantage of it, and as he crept nearer and nearer to the fugitives he felt his confidence rise in his horse's powers and his own.

About half a mile from the place where this stern chase commenced—where the road was crossed by another—a road which ran from Ludlow to the Cross Keys. The Major knew this, and also that on the other side of it the road dipped down into a rather steep hill. He had, got up some twenty yards nearer when the pair appeared in sight, and, keeping on the turf at the right side of the road, that the noise of his approach might not add fresh speed to the run-away, he called on Zerlina smartly for a decisive effort.

In front of the Cross Keys there was a triangular patch of sodden turf, and as Crane sadder came upon the bo slackened his speed very slightly; the Major dashed alongside and seized the reins near the bit in his right hand; the horse which was not a vicious one stopped after a few struggles, as he felt the power at work on the curb and the lady, falling fainting forward in a heap on his neck, would have tumbled to the ground had not the ever-ready Major leaned from his saddle and caught her in his arms. I would have made a capital picture—the two horses standing steaming and panting, and the Major staggering under the weight of the senseless damsel, whose chin hung over his shoulder—while her hair, released from its bonds in her wild flight through the air, streamed down his scarlet-posted back.

With some difficulty the Major carried his lovely burden into the porch of the Cross Keys.

"Show me a private room, and get me a glass of brandy," were the orders with which he stopped the mouth of the astonished landlady.

"Poor young lady!" said that female, in a tone of sympathy, as she brought the restoring fluid. "Can I do anything for her, Sir?"

"No, I think not," said the Major decisively. "Leave her to me. I've had some experience in cases of the kind," and thrusting half a crown into the woman's hand he shut the door in her face.

"Well, how she could be married he!" said the woman to herself, as she returned to the bar. She evidently thought, from the Major's want of sympathy, that he must be the husband of the sufferer.

The evening glooms were just closing in, and made the little back parlor look more and more dismal and dingy. The Major raised the clinging veil sufficiently to thrust the edge of the glass between the lips of the patient. Presently the color came back to her face, she drew a long gasping breath, and felt for her pocket-handkerchief. It was in the pocket of her saddle—the Major instantly placed his snowy cambric in her trembling hand. Then she overflowed.

The Major waited a little. Then he ventured to take the hand that was not occupied with his pocket handkerchief, and said in a tone of respectful tenderness.

"Don't pray don't give way so! You're quite safe now, I assure you."

Sob, sob.

"If you knew how every sob you utter rends my ("vitals," the Major was going to say, then he thought of "breast," and finally substituted) heart, you—you wouldn't keep on so."

Sob, sob.

"You don't know how I have hoped, have longed for a moment like this, to hold your head in mine, to feel that we are alone together, that you do not repulse me, that I am permitted" (Asses her hand), "that you do not forbid me." (Business as before)

Sob, sob, sob: When will she stop?" thought the Major.

"You do not answer, speak to me—or hear me while I tell you what I have wished to say for long days past. Miss Harford—Diana, I love you?" "That was deuced!" well put," thought the Major to himself.

"Sir" said the lady, suddenly electrified into an erect posture. It was but one word, but it was quite enough to almost throw the Impecunious off his invincible equilibrium. For that moment Miss Rose-death could boast of having seen that great man, to use a common, but expressive term, flabbergasted.

"Patty—Miss Roseneath!"

"Yes, Major Manmbanks, Miss Roseneath. Oh! take me home! take me home and never, never, dare to call me Patty again!"

"The de vil!" said the Major, slowly, beneath his mustaches

"You might have been satisfied with making a fool of a poor silly girl, without insulting her afterward. Oh! how could you be so cruel!"

"I say, Patty—listen a moment—don't talk like that. You don't suppose I meant to hurt your feelings? Hang it, I ain't such a fool as all that comes to. I didn't know it was you—I took you for"—

"Oh, I know you took me for Miss Harford. Dear Di! she told me you had been making love to h ince you came. But I thought you had only been fl-flirting," said poor Patty, going off again.

"Did she tell you that?

"Yes, and she said you were a, conceited man, and she was afraid every day you'd propose, because she would have the trouble of refusing you. I never told her all you said to me down at Rosewood Silly that I was, ever to believe in a Major'

Did pique and chagrin at this intelligence add to that load just received prompt the Major's next impulse? Or did his better angel whisper to him that a dinner of herbs with this little woman who really loved him, and for whom he was conscious of a feeling as nearly akin to that passion as he was capable of experiencing, would be better than a more splendid repast with her to whom he was indifferent? Bitterly would he have derided such an idea from another, bitterly that morning would he have laughed at the thought of his present conduct. But few men are up to their principles, and it was with a ring of genuine feeling in his voice that he sat down by Patty's side and said—but we will not write his words, they were greatly devoid of that artistic fluency which generally distinguished the Major's utterances to the fairsex, but to Patty they sounded like flowing honey.

"And you really will—and you're not sorry for what has happened?"

"Sorry," said the Major, looking down into her eyes, which dazed up through her tears, glistening with mingled light and tear drops, "perhaps it wasn't such an unfortunate fall after all!"

Would you be surprised to hear that the Major makes a capital husband? He lives in an atmosphere of spuds and sweet boughs, cattle and county magistracy, and when one some summer's eve, the cloud-compelling Cedar being lighted, he lies upon his lawn, and sees his young barbarians all at play, he feels that such existence is one to last a long time. He does not look annappy. Sometimes a young lady, who is getting older, comes to see Mrs. Majorbanks and the children. She is who has given Fred his pony and Mad ence his terrier She is still unmarried, and intends to continue so

"And yet I always thought you would marry, some time or other," says Patty to her visitor, as the Major passes the window

"And I know some one that thought so too, at least at one time."

"Ah, my dear," says Diana, with a sough, comical curl of her lip, "that was the Major's mistake.—From Temple Bar.

Attest AMBROSE C. FLINT, Register.

Notice of Foreclosure.

Whereas, Dudley F Leavitt of Bangor, and in the County of Penobscot, on the thirtieth day of June A. D. 1871, mortgaged to Mary S. Tibbets of said LaGrange, "a certain parcel of land in said Grange, aforesaid, bounded and described as follows, to wit: Beginning at the northeast corner of lot owned by Benjamin G. Bryer, on the south line of the County road leading from La Grange corner to Bradford, thence northerly on said Bryer's line to the northwest corner of lot owned by Albert W. Decker, according to plan and survey of said Holland, thence westerly on said Decker's line to the center of Dead stream, thence up the center of said stream, till it intersects a line running west from said Decker's land, thence east on said line to the road leading from La Grange corner to the south line of said road to the first mentioned bounds, containing sixty-two acres more or less," which mortgage was duly recorded in the Penobscot Registry, volume 670, page 522, which mortgage was assigned to me by said Mary S. Tibbets, by deed dated 1873, the assignment recorded in said Registry, volume 720, page 522, and whereas the conditions of said mortgage have, of course, been broken by reason of the non-payment of the money secured by said mortgage, and by the non-performance of the conditions of said mortgage, and this is a notice that by reason of the breach of the conditions aforesaid I claim a foreclosure of said mortgage.
